New Product Alert >>>

There are presently many kitchen gadgets that will assist the home / professional cook during the meal preparation process. There are choppers, graters and dicers, slicers, blenders and mixers to name a few. These are all wonderful kitchen helpers and have a specific function in daily food preparation routines, and will save you much appreciated time, and money.

There is one particular task widely performed during most meal preparation that traditionally is accomplished using a wooden spoon or "paddle" and is in itself very time consuming.

This involves "stirring the pot or pan". Quite a lot of recipes call for "stirring for short or long periods of time, some of which even call for stirring "to a hard boil which cannot be stirred down"".

Traditionally, "every-one" will stir a pot or pan, especially during those treasured family gatherings; when one often will hear, "come here and stir for me while I get this or that ready".

This no longer needs to happen, since now there is available "a robotic small kitchen appliance", which will stir the pot or pan for you, while you can continue to prepare the rest of the meal, or simply just desire to spend more time with your family and or guests.

For all the times you wish you had an "extra pair of hands", now; there is MixStir.

Available soon at all fine stores, including kitchen and restaurant supply shops
